

Soviet Leaders Lash West In Indian Talks

Nehru Says India Will Stay Neutral

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The two high men of the Soviet Union lashed out at "Western reactionaries" in speeches before the Indian Parliament Monday.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin told the 700 members of Parliament that the Western Powers are to blame for "settling the problem of disarmament back 10 years."

Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, charged that "reactionary circles" tried to intimidate Russia with atomic bombs and "as a result we were forced to create atomic and hydrogen weapons."

"The spirit of Geneva causes indignation to certain persons," who are still "trying to follow the notorious policy of 'from a position of strength,'" Khrushchev said.

Both Khrushchev and Bulganin, who were interrupted frequently by cheers of Parliament members, declared Russia and India are united in an "unending battle for peace."

Both vowed respect for India's right to choose its own path of development.

The Soviet leaders, who are on a goodwill tour of India, Burma and Afghanistan which is expected to last about a month, announced no change in their schedule which calls for a visit Wednesday to Bombay where rioting Monday resulted in 10 killed and 250 injured.

Communists and extreme left Socialists led the rioting which was started by the government's decision to split Bombay state into three parts.

At a state banquet Sunday night Bulganin and Khrushchev were told by Prime Minister Nehru that India does not intend to be beguiled by their visit into straying from her chosen path of neutrality.

India is "in no camp and no military alliance," he said, and only wants to be in the camp of "peace and goodwill." His words seemed to deny the Soviet claim to heading the only true forces for peace.

Bulganin played heavily on several issues calculated to arouse Indian enthusiasm.

"He referred to 'ancient friendship' between India and Russia, and said present cooperation between the two countries was of a 'versatile nature' comprising cultural and economic relations and cooperation in the struggle for peace and in scientific and technical research.

The possibility of Russian aid in India's industrial development appears to be one of the principal objects in private talks between the Russians and Nehru. The Russians have referred to it in virtually every statement.

Despite much talk of this, not much has been accomplished. Indian government spokesmen said Monday nine Soviet mining experts are expected here soon to help in a search for oil and minerals, and about 300 Soviet technicians may arrive in about a year to work on a million ton steel mill India is buying from the Soviet Union.

Tongay In Hospital In California

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — An attorney for Russell Tongay called the governor's office from Los Angeles Monday and asked that the escaped Florida convict be allowed to remain in California for medical treatment.

The lawyer, H. Weiner, said Tongay had been admitted to Washington Hospital in Los Angeles and would remain there at his own expense and return to Florida when his treatment is completed.

Tongay, serving a 10-year sentence for manslaughter in the death of a daughter, was sent to New Orleans under guard for diagnosis and treatment of a lung ailment.

He and his guard were involved in a traffic accident in New Orleans and Tongay escaped soon afterwards. When he turned up in Los Angeles, he said the accident had given him a temporary case of amnesia. He reported he had hitchhiked to the West Coast.

Joe Grotegut, administrative aide to Gov. Leroy Collins, said he doubted Tongay's request will be granted.

Grotegut said a fugitive warrant already has been sent to the Los Angeles County sheriff's office for Tongay.

Mitchell Raps GOP, Chapman Praises It

CHICAGO (AP) — Democrat Stephen A. Mitchell Monday night blasted the Republican state administration's handling of the school, highway and employment problems. Lt. Gov. John W. Chapman praised the administration and opposed proposals for federal aid to the schools.

Mitchell, former Democratic national chairman who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor next year, and Chapman, a Republican, shared the speaking platform at a dinner of the Independent Voters of Illinois.

200,000 Rioters Turn Bombay Into Battleground

BOMBAY, India (AP) — More than 200,000 rioters led by Communists and Socialists of the extreme left turned this big industrial port into a smoking battlefield Monday.

Ten persons were reported killed and 250 wounded and 1,000 were under arrest when uneasy quiet was restored.

Police and army units stood on the alert Monday night. There was sporadic violence even after darkness fell.

The worst riots in Bombay in the eight years of India's independence grew out of demonstrations of protest against the decision of the central government of Prime Minister Nehru to make a separate state of Bombay, India's second largest city. The state of which it is now capital would be split into two new states at the same time.

It was the first time under an independent Indian government that troops had to be called to help police quell disorder in Bombay.

Communist leaders raced about the city on motor scooters flying hammer and sickle flags, egging on the frenzied mobs and ordering them to "capture" the state legislature, which was meeting to discuss the city's future under the new state plan.

Ambulance Race Saves Baby's Life

CHICAGO (AP) — An ambulance escorted by police raced 56 miles in 50 minutes from Valparaiso, Ind., to a Chicago hospital Monday to have two fragments of peanuts removed from a baby's bronchial tubes.

The child, 20-month-old Gloria Creekmur of Lowell, Ind., was rushed to an operating room at St. Luke's Hospital and the fragments were removed with a bronchoscope a few minutes later.

Working in relays, police of various Indiana communities escorted the ambulance to the Illinois line at the Calumet Expressway, where it was picked up by Homewood, Ill., sheriff's police for the remainder of the trip.

In the ambulance were the child's mother, Mrs. Marjorie Creekmur, 21, and her grandmother, Mrs. Emerson Cummings.

Following in another automobile, though not keeping pace with the ambulance, were the child's father, Lowell, 21, and her great-grandfather, Joseph Hessling.

The child was reported resting easily, but will be kept in the hospital for a day or so for observation.

Eskimos In U.S. For Awards, Shatter Quite A Few Illusions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A couple of heroic Eskimos are in town, shattering illusions right and left.

The Eskimos, both members of the Alaska National Guard, were honored at the Pentagon Monday for leading a party to the speedy rescue of 11 members of a Navy patrol plane shot down by the Russians over the Bering Sea June 22.

M. Sgt. Willis Walunga, 31, and Sgt. I. C. Clifford Ikknokok, 28, got citations and had Navy wings pinned on them, quite unusual for landlubbers.

If they were impressed, they didn't show it. They seemed more interested in, and amused by, reactions to their comments on life as it is lived on St. Lawrence Island, only 30 miles from the Russian border.

"Most people are aware by now that most Eskimos don't live in igloos, and Walunga drove that point home neatly.

"Igloos? Sure, I've seen an igloo. The same place you saw an igloo, in a geography book."

Dressed in their warm winter costumes, they dropped by the Smithsonian Institution for a look at how scholars think Eskimos live.

"Interesting," observed Walunga the more talkative Eskimo. "I now have seen the second kayak of my life. I saw one, on a rack, in Nome once. We use open skin boats."

Walunga and Ikknokok hunt for a living, when they aren't national guarding. They aren't particular about what they get, walrus, seal, fox or whale.

"We eat them all, except the fox," Ikknokok said.

"The walrus is good eating," Walunga said. "Walrus liver is better than cow's liver."

They were walking through that incredible maze of inner corridors in the Pentagon when a reporter asked Walunga, "Which way is north?" Without even bothering to look for moss on the Pentagon walls, Walunga jerked his thumb over his shoulder. "Back that way," he said.

The reporter dropped over to Ikknokok and asked him the same question. "Right behind me," he said.

A check with one of our native guards, who had a roadmap of the Pentagon terrain, showed the Eskimos were right.

The awed consensus? A clever, useful people, these Eskimos.

Two Killed In Car Collision; Stratton Gives Assistance

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — A collision of two automobiles 25 miles southeast of Bloomington killed a man and a woman today.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, an advocate of highway safety, and his chauffeur were the first to arrive at the scene of the accident, the intersection of U. S. 136 and 54.

The dead were Mrs. Grace Main Pence of Carthage, Ill., and Leroy D. Williams of Decatur, Ill.

Mrs. Pence was bound east on 136 and Williams south on 54 when the accident occurred.

The governor and his driver, Lt. Leonard Werlz, helped remove one of the victims from a car. The driver sent a radio alarm to state police, who arrived within a few minutes.

Gov. Stratton was en route to Rantoul for lunch with the commanding officer of Chanute Field.

Police Chief Lists Details Of Charges Against Engstrom

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Supt. Phil M. Brown of the state police Monday filed details of charges against Capt. Henry Engstrom, suspended by Brown two weeks ago.

The charges were filed with the state police merit board which was requested to hold a hearing.

When he relieved Engstrom of his command, Brown said he was preparing to file charges of "insubordination, conduct unbecoming an officer and disrespect of a superior officer."

As filed, the charges were that:

1. Engstrom, as commander of Battalion 7 with two subordinate districts, 1 and 2, failed to give equal attention to both units and failed to permit the commander of District 1, Lt. Raymond H. Cramer, to assume his duties as commander.
2. He failed to make regular monthly inspections of his units during 1954-55.
3. He left his command for six hours without authority from a superior.
4. He used "coarse, profane and abusive" language to Cramer and other officers "resulting in the lowering of morale and of discrediting" highway police.

When Brown suspended him, Engstrom said he was not acquainted with the charges but would defend himself at his hearing.

Engstrom, who served on the Evanston, Ill., police force for 21 years before joining the state police in 1950, said he was given a choice of resigning or facing the merit board.

Blame 35 Per Cent Chicago's Crimes On Narcotics

CHICAGO (AP) — Police department spokesmen estimated today that 35 or 40 per cent of Chicago's crimes can be blamed to some degree on illicit drugs.

Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor and Lt. Joseph Healy, head of the narcotics detail, appeared at hearing on the narcotics problem by a U. S. Senate subcommittee.

O'Connor urged a minimum sentence of 10 years in prison for narcotics peddlers and proposed a state law that would make all users criminals.

Mrs. Marie Battiste, 26, a dancer who lives in Chicago, testified she got started on heroin nine years ago in Albany, N. Y.

Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex.), the subcommittee chairman and only member to attend the session, asked how she got started.

"Just out of curiosity," she replied.

Now, she said, she is making every effort to keep off the stuff.

CHRISTMAS TREE SHORTAGE FORESEEN

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Because the harvest has been slowed by unseasonable snow and cold, the nation faces a shortage of processed Christmas trees for the holidays.

Spokesmen for two Duluth evergreen processing firms said Monday that very few trees have been cut since Nov. 1, normally a peak harvest time, because of the heavy weather in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Roy E. Halvorson, president of Halvorson Trees, Inc., said his firm, normally processing more than a million trees, would be unable to fill 300,000 orders.

Paul Hedrick, manager of Kirk-Minnesota Co., said that company would be short 15,000 trees on its normal annual production of about 750,000. He said the snow, covering tops of trees, makes selection impossible and the low temperatures make the trees too brittle to handle.

Dr. William Bryan, Former President Of Indiana U., Dies

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president emeritus of Indiana University, died this afternoon in his home on the campus. The 95-year-old educator had been critically ill 10 days.

Dr. Bryan was president of Indiana University in 1902-37, a period of rapid academic expansion. Suffering from high blood pressure, he had been too ill since last March for strolls on the campus with which he had been identified for 75 years.

Dr. Bryan, a lifelong resident of the Bloomington community, had remained in the president's home on the campus as president emeritus since he turned over the presidency to Dr. Herman B. Wells.

Years before he took over the university administration, he had gained fame as a young psychology professor who demonstrated the speed of the learning at various ages in his classic "curve of learning."

He was the last of his immediate family, his wife, a brother and three sisters having preceded him in death.

37 Marooned On Texas Tower Still Have Turkey

TEXAS TOWER, 110 miles off Cape Cod, Mass. (AP) — Via Marine Radio Telephone — The food is good, but the news is bad for the party of 37 visitors marooned by bad weather aboard this manmade radar island since last Thursday.

Chief Levi Gardner announced Thursday dinner for Monday night, adding he has enough turkeys for a regulation Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday if we still are here.

The bad news is that we may have to eat our Thanksgiving dinner at Levi's table.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Boston forecast winds up to 40 m.p.h. or higher Tuesday.

Even without the wind we must stay here until the tug El Sol comes out again.

The tug skipper, Capt. Patrick Carlucho, radioed he was driven 200 miles southward by the violent wind and waves Sunday.

The El Sol was back in Provincetown, where she tied up so the crew can catch up on lost sleep before making another trip out here.

Most of the stranded visitors are Air Force brass and personnel from various air bases.

The writer, Boston AP photo editor, and staff photographer J. Walter Green, came out here last Thursday for a picture-taking visit to last a few hours.

Tension Mounts In Rio De Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Joao Cafe Filho moved Monday night to reclaim the presidency of Brazil—posing the nation's third government crisis in two weeks.

But a congressional leader predicted Congress will approve a resolution barring Cafe's return.

With tension mounting in the capital, armed troops surrounded the presidential palace, the Chamber of Deputies, the War Ministry and other key points. Troops passing through the streets en route to their posts were applauded by bystanders.

The government also imposed censorship on political news in newspapers, radio stations and outgoing news cables.

The area around the presidential palace was sealed off by troops. Provisional President Nereu Ramos, the second of Cafe's substitutes, presumably was inside the building.

PLANE STEWARDESS SHOT

SEATTLE (AP) — A stewardess, standing at the door of a United Air Lines plane welcoming passengers aboard, was shot to death Monday night.

Sally Shedd, 25, of Seattle died en route to a hospital.

After pumping "three or four shots" into the stewardess at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, the King County sheriff's office said, Miss Shedd's unidentified assailant walked calmly back down the ramp and shot himself.

The sheriff's office said he "was in bad shape" at a hospital.

Miss Shedd, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Shedd of San Francisco, joined United as stewardess in July, 1952.

Baghdad Alliance Lays Out NATO-Type Defense Organization

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Britain and four other members of the Baghdad Pact took the first steps Monday to set up a permanent defense organization along the Soviet Union's southern border.

The premiers of Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey met with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan for the inaugural council meeting of the newly formed alliance.

They also set up a military committee of high officers of all five nations to draw up proposals for a permanent military structure binding members into a NATO-like organization.

The defense organization being set up ties the Middle East with NATO in the west through Turkey and to SEATO in the east through Pakistan, a member of the South-East Asia Treaty Organization.

Macmillan and the four premiers —Nuri Said of Iraq, Hussein Ala of Iran, Adnan Menderes of Turkey and Chaudhri Mohammed Ali of Pakistan—met for the first time under the alliance in Al Zahour (Flower) Palace on the outskirts of this ancient city.

Premier Said of Iraq opened the conference with a pledge to aid any Arab state threatened by Israel. He declared:

"Iraq will not hesitate to use its resources for the assistance of any Arab state subjected to Israeli aggression in accordance with its obligations under the treaty of collective defense and economic cooperation between the states of the Arab League."

The statement was regarded here as intended to help soften the opposition of Egypt and some of the other Arab League members of the Baghdad Pact.

Macmillan said the pact members welcomed "the massive influence and support of the United States."

Present as observers were U. S. Ambassador W. J. Galtman and Adm. John H. Cassady, U. S. Naval Commander in Europe.

Guided Missile Major Weapon For Nation's Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Brucker said Monday night the Nike guided missile "can seek out and destroy any aircraft, no matter how high or fast it may fly."

This missile is now the "major Army weapon" for the antiaircraft defense of the principal cities and industrial areas of the nation, the secretary added.

His remarks were in a speech prepared for the Society of Medical Consultants to the armed forces.

Brucker's claims for the Nike added another chapter to the discussion of the weapon's effectiveness. Some Air Force and Army people have been skeptical of the Nike's value against fast planes.

Defense Department officials said earlier Monday that in recent tests Nike missiles knocked down some Air Force Matadors but failed to hit others. The Matador is a pilotless bomber with a speed of about 700 m.p.h., as against the Nike's 1,500 or more m.p.h.

Vatican Says It's True, Pope Had Vision Of Jesus Dec. 2, '54

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican said Monday it is true Pope Pius XII had a vision of Jesus Christ during his illness last winter.

A brief announcement from the office of Vatican press director Luciano Casimiri said:

"This press office has been authorized to confirm what has been announced by the weekly illustrated Oggi in its issue of Nov. 24 about the vision of the Holy Father in the course of his illness of December 1954."

The current issue of Oggi, a picture magazine of wide circulation which appeared on newsstands last Friday, said the vision occurred when the Pope's illness reached a climax—on Dec. 2, 1954—and he was reciting the prayer "Anima Christi (Soul of Christ)".

Oggi said:

"The secret about the episode was kept until now and only the affectionate indiscretion of one of those knowing it enabled us to learn and tell of the marvelous episode...."

"The Holy Father is perfectly sure he saw Jesus—it was no dream; in that moment he was fully awake and clear-minded."

It said that when the pontiff came to the invocation of the prayer, "In horae mortis meae, voca me in the hour of my death, call me," the Pope saw "the sweet person of Jesus Christ at his bedside."

"In that moment," Oggi continued, "the Holy Father believed that the Teacher came to call him to Himself and, serenely answering to the call, he continued the prayer: 'Jube me venire ad te (order me to come to You)'. Jesus, however, did not come to take him, but to console him and give him certainty that his hour had not yet come."

It was from that moment, said Oggi, that the Pope "started to improve in such a sudden manner that many people considered it a miracle."

A member of the Vatican Congregation of Holy Rites, the church agency concerned with beatification and canonization, said he could recall no such reported vision since Jesus appeared to St. Peter when the Apostle was fleeing persecution of early Christians in Rome.

Roman Catholic writings tell of the appearance of Christ—usually as the Infant Jesus—to various saints, among them St. Anthony of Padua and St. Christopher.

The 70-year-old Pope still is at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo and is to return to the Vatican at the end of this week.

Helicopters Fly Officials To Meeting

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Eisenhower and his top defense strategists—who flew in from Washington in helicopters—met Monday at secluded Camp Davis in the snow-covered Carocin Mountains.

Eisenhower drove 22 miles from his farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., for his first meeting with his top defense planners—the National Security Council and about 15 experts in defense and diplomatic strategy—since before his Sept. 24 heart attack at Denver.

The first Air Force helicopter landed with Secretary of State Dulles, Sherman Adams, the President's chief deputy; Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes, and Robert R. Bowie, director of the State Department policy planning staff.

Vice President Nixon and Dillon Anderson, Eisenhower's special assistant for national security affairs, came in another 'copter.

The meeting was the President's first opportunity for a full-scale review of the nation's military strength and diplomatic position since negotiations for a peaceful solution of cold war differences with Russia collapsed at the Four Power Geneva conference of foreign ministers. As is usual, the meeting was private.

The conference lasted about two hours. James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, followed his practice on NSC meetings of refusing to disclose what was discussed or decided.

The third 'copter brought in Secretary of Defense Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Harold Stassen, special assistant to the President on disarmament; Atty. Gen. Brownell, Theodore Streibert, head of the U.S. Information Agency, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief representing the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The fourth plane brought Nelson Rockefeller, presidential assistant for psychological strategy; John Hollister, head of the International Cooperation Administration; Arthur S. Flemming, defense mobilization director; James S. Lay, executive secretary of the NSC, and S. Edward Gleason, his assistant.

The landing field is located about the length of a football field from the President's lodge.

Tuesday the President returns to Gettysburg to meet with his Cabinet.

The President walked the 300 yards from his lodge to Laurel Lodge for Monday afternoon's session stopping to look at the helicopters hovering overhead. He was with Allen W. Dulles, a brother of the secretary of state, who flew into Gettysburg Monday morning to brief the President on intelligence reports in advance of the meeting. Dulles is director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Japanese Reports Soviet A-Tests Friday

TOKYO (Tuesday) (AP) — A Japanese scientist said Monday he believes the Russians staged some atomic tests last Friday or Saturday in Siberia.

Dr. Hironobu Watanabe of Nigata University, 150 miles north of Tokyo, said his rainwater analysis this week showed a 314 Geiger count—10 times above normal for the area.

He concluded the rainwater was radioactivated by atomic fallout carried to Japan on winds from Siberia.

Editorial Comment

THEY OVERLOOK THE COST

With quite a few politicians beginning to talk lovingly again of a return to 90 per cent of parity farm price supports, maybe it's useful to take a fresh look at the surpluses they encouraged.

There was a time when seven billion dollars was considered an outrageous total for the whole cost of government. But today the United States has an investment of 7.33 billion dollars in surplus farm products alone.

In just the month of September this year, the government picked up an added 220 million dollars worth of farm stocks. Even in a depreciated currency a tidy sum.

It might be a good thing if, every time a politician mentions the magic "90 per cent of parity" figure, a cash register bell would ring somewhere in the hall and a large seven-billion-dollar figure would flash upon a screen. Then we might get some hard, sensible thinking about the farm problem.

OUR POPULATION PROBLEMS

At Geneva they talk of disarmament, of putting Germany back together again, of a security system for Europe. What may really be the world's greatest problem—the tremendous population upsurge—stands in the shadows behind the conferring statesmen.

No one would argue for an instant that the matters which engage the men at Geneva are inconsequential. Possible settlement of issues that otherwise might lead to hydrogen warfare obviously is of paramount significance.

Yet the statesmen might be much more willing to settle if they were prepared to measure realistically the steadily building population pressures which beset the world.

Some of the predictions of the population experts are staggering.

Suppose, for example, that hydrogen war erupted and wiped out the entire Russian and American peoples (382 million but somehow miraculously spared the rest of the world. At normal rates of world growth, this deficit would be made up in 10 years.

Today's world total is 2.8 billion, and forecasts are that it may reach 6.6 billion by 1987. The rate of increase, worldwide, is 1 per cent a year. For long ages it was .02. At the outset of the 19th century it had climbed to 0.3 per cent, and it has been rising most of the time since.

In the great underdeveloped lands—China, India, Pakistan, Egypt and others in Asia, Africa and Latin America—the present rate is closer to 3 per cent a year. Here in areas already swamped with people, the burden grows more crushing every day.

These lands find it almost impossible even to keep pace economically with the population growth, let alone lift their living standards.

Since World War II, Pakistan has boosted food output 20 per cent, a sizable achievement. Yet today it provides 10 per cent less food per person than in 1940, because population has mounted so fast.

Under India's recent planning, 15 million farm acres may be added by 1956. But the extra food output will be largely consumed in providing basic sustenance for the nearly five million Indians added to the country's population yearly.

Not even the most bountiful lands can ignore the potential dangers. We may avoid the distress and famine that repeatedly have visited less fortunate areas and now may do so more often. But we could reach a critical point in three or four decades where we will find it hard to maintain and advance our prized living standards.

The scholars have had this problem long enough. It's time it found its way to the highest council tables. If it doesn't get there pretty soon, some of the matters the statesmen do consider may begin to look like schoolboys' games in comparison.

A Glance Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Joseph E. Darush of Jacksonville was named inspector of Royal Arch Masons Chapters in the 20th district.

The city attorney of Jacksonville reported to the city council that there was no urgent demand by Illinois cities to redistrict.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Lawrence of Jacksonville observed their 50th wedding anniversary.

Carl Smith, 425 South Main street, was injured in an automobile collision in Jacksonville.

20 YEARS AGO

A. G. Highberger was elected president of the Knights of Columbus Supper Club.

Orville Becker of near Pisgah injured his hand while helping place a ring in a bull's nose.

A memorial altar was dedicated at St. John's Lutheran Church at Meredosia.

Plans were made to decorate Jacksonville stores during the Christmas holidays.

50 YEARS AGO

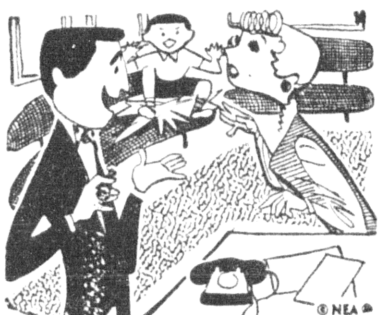

A number of farmers in the Markham neighborhood purchased large box cars from the Chicago & Alton railroad to be used for corn cribs.

A barn at the residence of Thomas Hale at Walnut street and Ashland avenue was destroyed by fire.

H. T. Richards and Jerome Gates were taken to Waverly by George Wolfe in his automobile. They expected to attend a D.O.K.K. Meeting.

Considerable excitement was caused on South Main street when a gas main that was being repaired caught on fire.

Manners Make Friends

A receptionist in a carefully decorated office says it is amazing how much unnecessary damage is done by persons who obviously wouldn't treat their own furniture and possessions carelessly. Ashes are flung on carpeting, children allowed to stand on upholstered furniture, cigarette burns ruin upholstery etc. Take as good or even better care of the possessions of others than of your own.

It's a measure of good breeding. The planet Mars, named after the war god, has two moons, named Phobos and Deimos, or Fear and Panic, the companions of war.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Astrology has gone feline. They now have a book out on how your cat, too, is controlled by the stars.

The book is called "Horoscopes For Pussy Cats" and the author is Bootsie Campbell.

A note about the author says: "At the moment she is stretched out on a sunny window, tail curled around, contented and delighted with everything and everyone! She is very special."

What makes her so special? A publisher friend of mine says this would describe any author he has ever known.

I am glad to see this book on astrology for cats published.

For years I suffered from an allergy to cats, which, happily, I was able to conquer. For many years, however, I have suffered from an allergy to people who believe in astrology. This allergy, fight it though I try, I can do nothing about.

Even the dictionary defines astrology as a "pseudo science," and the dictionary usually has a nice word for everything. The idea that people actually believe events on earth are controlled by the position of the stars and planets thoroughly depresses me with the future of the human race.

When I see a man who attends church buying an astrology magazine I can't help wondering who he is trying to make a fool of—his God or himself.

People who believe in astrology I cannot help but classify with those who have a blind confidence that picking up a toad will give them warts and that if they leave a horse's hair in a bottle of water for six weeks it will turn into a snake.

Recently I picked up a Cleveland paper and was astounded to note it estimated that 50,000 people in the area read astrology publications regularly. For days I've pondered what to do to save them from themselves. Is there no philanthropic society willing to float propaganda balloons into Cleveland and tell these lost 50,000 souls about how wonderful life is in the outside world?

Paganism is at least worth philosophical consideration, but astrology?—never!

For humans, that is. A cat shouldn't find it too hard to believe in astrology. After all, a cat doesn't believe in people, so it has to believe in something.

The volume at hand, "Horoscopes For Pussy Cats," offers this sound warning to cats born under the sign of Aries, from March 21 to April 19:

"You are susceptible to headaches and weakness of the kidneys. Don't eat too much catnip or you may suffer from a hang-over. Take more milk."

Perhaps this is a hidden warning to the 50,000 astrology fans in Cleveland. Who knows?

Once you believe in astrology what can you be sure of?

Communication

Springfield, Ill. Nov. 17, 1955

Jacksonville Journal Courier:

In yesterday's edition of the Courier I read the findings of the Coroner's Jury regarding the death of a Jacksonville resident who lost his life at the North Main Street crossing and Wabash Rail Road recently.

A number of years ago there were crossing flagmen at this crossing for 16 hours a day, at that time the traffic on North Main street was only one fifth of what it is today. The flagmen were removed and lights installed with the blessings of the City Council. (not the present city council) they had nothing to do with removing the flagmen.

The North Main Street crossing needs as much (and maybe more) protection as the Church Street crossing; in fact a flagman should be on duty for 24 hours a day at this crossing seven days a week. There is no need to even think about an overhead or a subway at this place as it is not a logical place for it. The only solution is flagmen 24 hours a day, gates won't help much.

If flagmen are put back on this crossing it will probably be necessary to discontinue the lights that are supposed to protect the crossing.

The motorist can't be blamed for driving on to the track and having his car hit by a train because no one can know what caused him to drive onto the track and get hit.

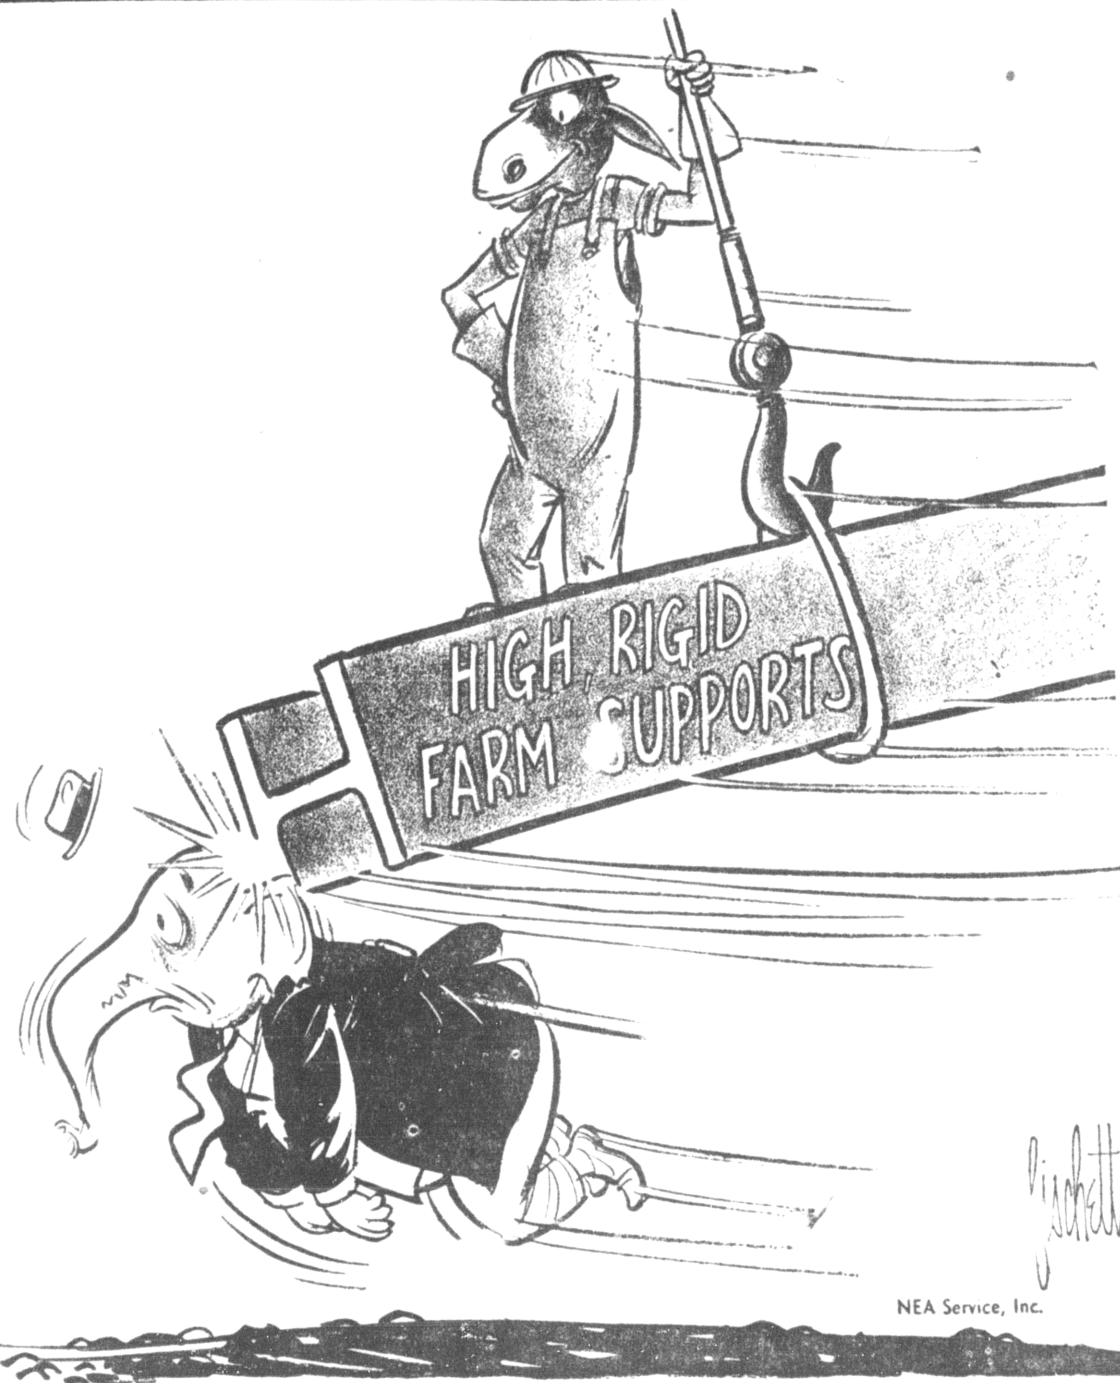

The Railroads can't be blamed if a train exceeds the speed limit as they haul freight, much of it perishable, which has a certain time to reach its destination, and if it isn't there on time some one else will haul it. So why not put the blame where it belongs. The I.C.C. will help you.

Respectfully Yours

Search for Beneficial Climate Is Difficult Task

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Mr. Y has been advised that his 61-year-old son must have a change of climate because the youngster suffers from "bronchial trouble and has seven scars from pneumonia on his lungs." Apparently the father has been told to seek a climate which is dry and equable.

It certainly sounds as though a youngster who had suffered several attacks of pneumonia and presumably had a chronic cough might benefit from just the right climatic change.

HOW TO FIND IT is the problem. It is possible that some of the southern sections of Arizona or New Mexico might do, since these are likely to be dry enough, but they are not "equable" since there is a great variation between day and night temperatures.

Perhaps in this instance one would have better luck in some part of southern California away from the seacoast.

There is no easy way to solve this problem: the safest is for the youngster to try some area which seems promising and if he does well that is fine but if he does not another attempt will have to be made.

ANOTHER PARENT SAYS that her 8-year-old boy walks in his sleep. He seems to be wide awake, his mother says, and when she tells him to go back to bed he obeys, falls sound asleep and knows nothing of it in the morning.

This is apparently a fairly simple problem. The child does not seem to be suffering any ill effects from his sleepwalking. Except for getting the mother up at night, the situation seems rather harmless.

As a form of sleeping difficulty, however, the parents should keep the youngster from too much exciting play or entertainment in the late afternoon or evening avoid upsetting the child by any appearance of family squabbling, and insist that the youngster go to bed regularly and stay there each night at the same time. These steps are good for any child!

THE MOTHER of a 14-year-old daughter is concerned because the girl's periods are still irregular. Assuming that the girl's health is otherwise good, it is almost certainly best not to make a fuss over the situation since in all probability nature will take care of it in due course. Such experiences are so common that they must be considered as normal in many girls of that age.

Mrs. E. also writing about a 14-year-old daughter, says that the girl is small and undeveloped physically. She says her daughter has played with and held babies for several years and many people say that this is the reason for her slow development, the mother wants to know if this is true. To this it can be said quite definitely, that it is not true and that in all probability nature will take care of the problem about which the mother is so concerned.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Today Margaret O'Brien takes another stride forward in her campaign to be accepted as a grown-up.

The onetime child star is appearing on NBC's afternoon dramatic show, Matinee. She's playing a 16-year-old (that's a step backward) who falls in love with a 30-year-old man (that's several steps forward).

Although she'll be 19 Jan. 15, Margaret has been allowed little more than puppy love in the movies. Her latest film is a racehorse yarn, "Glory," in which she has a bit of a romance with John Lupton. Otherwise film producers have trouble thinking of her as anything but the pig-tailed little girl with the winsome smile.

"TV has helped a lot to change the conception of me as a little girl," said Margaret. "You can do a wide variety of roles, and so many people see you I'm beginning to get some people to realize that I have grown up."

Grown up she has. She's now a cup sugar, 1 teaspoon ground mace, 2 egg yolks, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1 cup moist shredded coconut 1 cup blanched almonds, sliced, 4 cups mixed glazed fruit, 7 egg whites.

Sift first 3 ingredients together (save 1 cup to mix with the fruit and nuts). Cream butter or margarine, sugar and ground mace together alternately with the pineapple juice. Mix the coconut, fruit over also my flesh shall rest in hope—Acts 2:26.

The shadow of human life is traced upon a golden ground of im-cake biter. Bake in a paper-lined round, 8-inch tube cake pan 2 hours or until done in a preheated oven 300 degrees F.) Keep a shallow pan of hot water on a rack the price for beautiful girls being underneath cake while it is baking, turned over to the less beautiful Remove from oven and cool in the as dowries so that every girl pan. Turn out and remove paper, eventually found a husband.

But she made it clear there was no serious romance in her life. Her No. 1 interest is her career right now.

She has been actively engaged in it since she was 4½. Does she regret not having a normal childhood?

"Oh, no," she replied quickly. "Not at all. I always enjoyed acting. I still do."

Efforts to Flood-Proof Disaster Victims Lag

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Government and private disaster relief agencies have apparently been able to do little in relocating on high ground the families or business establishments washed out by this year's northeastern states hurricanes and floods.

This startling fact is revealed by reports of Small Business Administration, Farmers Home Administration and the National Red Cross. These reports cover 37 million dollars' worth of aid they administered up to Nov. 10.

This aid covers only 8 per cent of Department of Commerce's estimated 457 million dollars damage from Hurricane Dianne alone. This estimate included seven million dollars farm damage, 67 million dollars housing damage and 217 million dollars commercial and industrial damage. Highway, street and bridge damage was estimated at 81 million dollars, public and private utility damage at 79 million dollars and miscellaneous damage six million dollars additional.

CONGRESSIONAL AND EXECUTIVE departments of the federal government are currently studying the possibility of issuing some new form of storm insurance. It is likely that the legislation will be introduced in the next session of Congress.

But none of the studies has thus far paid much attention to the simple fact that the best form of flood insurance is to refrain from building on locations that may be flooded.

American Red Cross officials in Washington explain that in cases where floods have washed right through a property and destroyed the land, they help families relocate on high ground.

Or if a city or county government condemns sites as unsafe for future occupancy, Red Cross aids relocation.

If a site remains intact, however, Red Cross leaves it up to the people of each location whether they will rebuild or not.

If flood victims were moved from uncondemned locations, Red Cross officials point out, others might move right in on the vacant sites.

THE RED CROSS AID PROGRAM for this year's hurricane and flood victims has now been practically completed. The final figures are expected to be about 15,000 families helped at a cost of 15 million dollars. The average relief is thus $1000.

Small Business Administration 3 per cent disaster relief loan applications have practically all been handled. About 95 per cent of the loans have gone to small businesses, 5 per cent for new housing. The final total is expected to be around 1600, loans issued for nearly 25 million dollars, for an average of under $15,000 apiece.

SBA points out that many of its borrowers have to rebuild on old sites because damage was not complete. Disaster loans aren't made to cover relocation of an entire plant. Approximately 10 per cent of SBA loan applications are rejected.

Farmers Home Administration has so far made only 21 hurricane and flood relief loans for a total of $78,000. But FHA has 300 applications for loans pending. It expects to close around 200 by Jan. 1. Others will be issued next spring, when farmers need money to put in new crops.

THIS IS THE SUMMARY of Red Cross and SBA loans so far:

Sisters Injured Few Minutes After Saying Farewell To Mother

Two sisters enroute to their homes after visiting their mother at Meredosia were injured about 7 o'clock Monday morning when the car in which they were riding went out of control on State Route 104, seven miles west of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Ruth Hoffman, 62, of Lepanto, Ark., driver of a 1955 Chevrolet, and Mrs. Nellie Allen, 60, of New Orleans, La., were unconscious when help arrived.

The car rammed into the earthen bank at the side of the highway and was badly damaged.

The women, daughters of Mrs. Mary Starks of Meredosia, were taken to Passavant hospital in the Cooney ambulance.

As of Monday evening Mrs. Allen had not regained consciousness and the extent of her injuries was unknown. Her condition was described as "critical." Mrs. Hoffman was in "satisfactory" condition. Both sustained cuts and bruises, and were suffering from shock.

State Patrolman Clyde Vasconcellos, Jr., said the car ran off the north edge of the pavement. The car did not turn over, but both the front and rear were badly damaged as it spun around against the embankment. Luggage of the occupants was scattered along the highway.

The accident occurred almost in front of the Earl Werries residence. Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Starks had been visiting their mother at Meredosia and were starting home at the time of their injury.

Teachers present as chaperones were Miss Peggy Chapman, Miss Mary Ann Schulte, Mr. and Mrs. James Major, Charles Rueb, Chel Young and Howard Savoie.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond MacClelland were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Telling.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Pittenger and sons spent the weekend with his brother in Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Chel Young drove to Bardolph Friday. Saturday Mrs. Young, Su Lynn, and Mrs. Maxwell drove to Davenport to see "A Little Bit of Heaven."

Layton Yeakel was home from Ft. Leonard Wood to spend the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Yeakel.

Audience Hears Hugh Beggs With Rare Pleasure

By Clara Moore Nelms

The piano recital by Hugh Beggs on Sunday afternoon in Annie Merner Chapel, MacMurray College, was an event of unusual interest in that it was the performer's twenty-fifth annual recital, and an exact duplicate of the one he presented on Oct. 5, 1931.

Opening with the Bach Fantasy and Fugue, Mr. Beggs achieved a tone of rare beauty, which was well sustained through the lyric passages of the Beethoven Variation in C minor and the Chopin Sonata in B minor, which formed the major part of the program.

Probably the legato melodies with their remarkable carrying quality will be the memory that will linger in the minds of those who heard the Sunday performance. Of the group of four numbers by Rachmaninoff, Debussy, and Ravel, all contemporary composers in 1931, the "Fireworks" was particularly effective, not only for its protechnics but for varied tonal effects.

As encores Mr. Beggs played a group of Chopin pieces, the First Prelude, the Mazurka in A minor, and the Butterfly Etude, also the Bach C minor Fantasy.

The large audience Sunday afternoon listening with the closest attention attested the sincere regard in which Mr. Beggs is held. It is impossible to measure the value of recitals such as he has presented over a period of twenty-five years. Certainly they have enriched the cultural life of Jacksonville.

Coach Of Spartans Tells Secret For Success At QB Club

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—A nucleus of seniors playing with the spirit and zest of sophomores—that's the secret of success of Rose Bowl-bound Michigan State.

An analysis of the Spartans' 8-1 season record and their recognition as one of the greatest football teams in the nation centers on the seniors, according to Coach Duffy Daugherty.

Daugherty told the Chicago American Quarterback Club Monday that "our seniors have been our pacesetters—they worked hard, had more desire than the sophomores and had the best attitude."

"Carl Nystrom is the best all-around guard I've seen in my nine years at Michigan State," he added. "He is most consistent. Never had a bad day. Norman Masters is the best tackle since Don Coleman 1931 All-American."

"Quarterback Earl Morrall was not at his physical peak for two years, but this season was simply great. He is a take-charge guy and an honor student in engineering."

"Jerry Planutis is as much of an unsung player that I have. But the big fullback always comes up with the key play, both on offense and defense."

Daugherty conceded that his sophomore halfback sensation, Walt Kowalczyk, "shows great promise, and in the first couple of games he didn't know his real ability—he found it against Notre Dame."

"But I think the best all-around back I've seen is our Clarence Peaks (a junior)," said Daugherty. "He has been hampered by injury. But his blocking has done much in breaking Kowalczyk loose. Peaks, in addition to being excellent on defense, can run, pass and kick. He hasn't done much passing, but we may use him more in this respect."

Daugherty hinted that Peaks' passing may be a new offensive wrinkle he plans to use against UCLA in the Rose Bowl game.

"As for UCLA," he added, "we certainly have a lot of respect for their men, halfback Sam Brown and fullback Bob Davenport, and for their coach, Red Sanders. The team is big, strong and active. It passes and runs well, and is powerful on defense. But I'm certainly not going to make any predictions about the Rose Bowl."

UCLA Students Stage Celebration On Campus Monday

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Happy over the formal selection of the UCLA football team to represent the Pacific Coast Conference against Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, Bruins students staged an impromptu celebration on the campus in the rain Monday.

But Coach Henry R. (Red) Sanders contributed a cautioning note when he observed:

"Michigan State may well be the best team in the nation. I saw them twice on television this season and they were the most impressive team I saw all year."

Sanders intimated that Michigan might have presented slightly less of a problem for his PCC champions, but he insisted "we'd rather play the best."

Michigan State bids fair to be the favorite to continue the Big Ten domination in the post-season contest. The PCC has won only one in nine games since the current series was started in 1947.

Sanders appeared at the Southern California chapter of the Football Writers Assn. weekly luncheon.

The Bruins wound up the regular season with a 17-7 victory over Southern California and an overall record of nine wins and one loss, to Maryland, 7-0.

The Spartans beat UCLA team in the bowl 28-20 in the 1954 game.

Sanders said he does not as yet know whether his throwing ace, injured Ronnie Knox, will be ready to play against MSU.

WASHINGTON STATE FOOTBALL COACH AL KIRCHER FIRED

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—Al Kircher was fired as football coach at Washington State College Monday night after one of the Cougars' worst seasons in history.

The school said it is buying up the one year left on his contract for $12,500.

President C. Clement French said the action also affects two of Kircher's assistants, line coach Mike Scarry and end coach Dale Gentry.

Freshman coach Don Stavelly presumably will keep his job.

The Cougars won only one of 10 games this year and Kircher has been under fire from alumni.

ANDERSON DENIES RUMOR OF COACHING JOB

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Daily Record Monday night said Holy Cross football coach Dr. Eddie Anderson is seriously considering an offer to become head football coach and athletic director at Marquette.

This brought an immediate denial from Anderson, who said:

"I have never talked to anyone connected with Marquette University. I am very happy here at Holy Cross. I can't understand where such rumors would originate."

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

I. C. coach Al Miller will be the guest speaker tonight for the Franklin high school football banquet. Principal Harry Fitzhugh has announced the annual affair will be held at Alexander high school this year. Coach Miller will take footballers Henry Jackson and Bob Hembrough, Hembrough, as most fans will recall, was one of the best halfbacks Franklin high ever produced. Bill Morris will represent the I. C. basketball team.

J. H. S. football halfback Bill Nunn had the cast removed from his left arm Monday morning. He reported to Coach John Chapman for basketball practice. It'll be awhile before all the strength is restored as it's still swollen around the thumb. Bill played basketball his freshman year at Meredosia. Football injuries stopped his basketball career for the next two years. Barring "ole injuries" maybe coach Chapman can utilize his abilities as football coach Bob Kraushaar did.

Skip Dyer is still hobbling around from the football injury to his knee. The cast was removed last week. Skip expressed a desire to go out for the wrestling team, but has been advised to forget any other sport this year and let strength return.

Winchester's Steve Redshaw has made the freshman team at St. Louis University. He started Sunday night against the varsity at a forward post. Redshaw, a former center for Winchester high school, had an outstanding prep career under coach Walt Rucks before graduating last June.

Coach Larry Zukus, who is doing a swell job for Routt, passed his army physical examination last week at Chicago. He has been deferred until next June.

- The tallest man on the Routt squad is 5' 11". "What they lack in height will be made up in speed," expressed Coach Zukus, as he sent his seniors through their paces for Routt's opener at Chapin Nov. 29. The squad will have five returning lettermen who are Jim Cosgriff, Jim Devore, Jim Sargent, Jack Baptiste and Jack Long.
- This column would like to recall sports of 10 and 20 years ago for the athletes who were making headlines on the sport pages of this area. The poem below represents what all ex-athletes must want to realize someday, but what most of us try to put off as long as we can:

Ex-Athlete

No more to be the conqueror of those who wished to vie With you for some athletic wreath or the fickle public's eye. You've joined a long, forgotten line of those who once were great. Champions of a golden past resigned to a less glorious fate. No more will you give pleasure to the vast thrill-seeking crowd. Your ears must hear the praise of those younger sung aloud. Those hard-won records you think now, your claim to immortality. By one born to a faster age will be stamped out quite thoughtlessly. Well, you've had your days of glory and of worn the victor's crown. Your well trained body has slowed up, but the will to win lives on. So you stand on the sidelines and swallow a bitter truth: The spirit's a thing eternal but the body belongs to youth.

—Anne Anders

Two Ejected Michigan Players Apologize To Coaches And Team

by JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Coach Bennie Oosterbaan said Monday the two players expelled from the Michigan-Ohio State football game Saturday have apologized to their teammates and coaches.

Oosterbaan stressed, however, that tackle Al S. man and end Ron Kramer were ejected for arguing with game officials, not for fighting.

Oosterbaan made his statement after a coaches meeting Monday. Ohio State won its second straight Big Ten title Saturday by whipping Michigan 17-0.

A victory would have given the Wolverines the conference crown and a Rose Bowl bid.

The Michigan-Ohio State game erupted in a rash of penalties to both teams as partisan fans of both schools crowded the field before the game was over.

Twice, with 32 seconds to go and with two seconds to go, spectators forced officials to halt the game.

Fans tore down the north goal posts and shook the south post loose from its foundations before the game was over.

One "delay of the game" penalty was called against Ohio State when Buckeye fans crowded onto the sidelines from goal line to goal line.

The three minutes of penalties that closed the game ran in this order:

1. Illegal use of the hands against Ohio State (15 yards).
2. A double penalty against both squads eight plays later (play nullified).
3. Illegal use of the hands against Ohio State two plays later.
4. Personal foul against Michigan two plays later. In the resulting arguments, Sieman and Kramer were ejected from the game for unsportsmanlike conduct. Michigan was penalized to the 18-inch line.
5. Personal foul against Ohio State two plays later, following an Ohio score (15 yards).
6. A double penalty (play nullified).
7. Illegal use of the hands against Michigan on the next play.
8. Personal foul against Michigan on the final play of the game.

Irish Prepare For Southern Cal's Single Wing Attack

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Defensive preparations for Southern California's single wing attack will be the main theme of the week's practice for the Irish. Coach Terry Brennan said Monday.

Brennan and his staff studied films of Notre Dame's 17-14 victory over Iowa, which used the single wing almost exclusively in the game. Reserves then were ushered against freshmen using the single wing offense.

Fullback Don Schaefer, who played only half of the game against Iowa because of injury, is expected to be ready for full service against the Trojans. Extensive duty is also expected from halfback Aubrey Lewis and linemen Wayne Edmonds and Bob Gaydos.

Taylor Of Stanford Picks Spartans To Win Over UCLA

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—The one football coach in the country who possibly could know first hand, indicated Monday he thought Michigan State might have an edge over UCLA in the Rose Bowl game.

Chuck Taylor of Stanford, in the unique position of being the only coach whose team played—and lost to—both of this year's Pasadena constants in regular season play, hedged a little on naming the winner of the Jan. 2 game.

"You're not going to get me to stick my neck out clear down to Pasadena," he said, grinning. "I'm not going to pick the winner."

"We lost to Michigan State 38-14 and to UCLA 21-13. On the days we played both teams, Michigan State was the better."

"It was better because it hit harder and had more balance and overall speed. It also had more good running backs and a quicker line and those two things could make the difference."

"Both of them have tremendous offenses, but from my experience I'd say that Michigan State had the edge. Defensively, I'd say on the same basis that UCLA was a little stronger."

Padlock Little League Baseball Headquarters

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—The headquarters of Little League Baseball, Inc., was padlocked Monday by the Lycoming County sheriff on a complaint filed by the commissioner of the Organization for Baseball Promotion among Youngsters.

Sheriff William King closed the headquarters on a "foreign attachment" petition filed in Lycoming County by Carl Stotz, Williamsport.

The prothonotary's office said Stotz filed the papers "to the amount of $300,000." It added that Little League Baseball Inc. will have to post a bond for $600,000 before it will be allowed to open its office.

Stotz said in a statement that the foreign attachment papers are preliminary to a $300,000 law suit he will file against Little League Baseball, Inc., for "breach of contract."

Peter J. McGovern, president of Little League, could not be reached for comment.

Stotz said contract provisions which would enable him to "safeguard the original concepts of the Little League program" have been violated.

Bobby Mitchell Only Sophomore Named On All-Big Ten Selection

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Sweeping eight places, Michigan State, Ohio State and Michigan dominated The Associated Press 1955 all-Big Ten football team as they did the conference drive.

Ohio State and Michigan State each landed three berths, and Michigan two on the No. 1 lineup chosen by AP staff writers in the Big Ten area Monday.

One place each went to Purdue, Illinois and Iowa.

Seven seniors and three juniors were named, with only one sophomore making the grade—halfback Bobby Mitchell of Illinois.

Mitchell's selection was an unprecedented gesture, for until the last two weeks of the season his status at Illinois was that of a reserve. He got his big chance when Harry Jefferson, who he understudied, was injured.

The fancy-gaited 175-pounder from Hot Spring, Ark., established himself as a potential history-making runner by skittering 173 yards in 10 carries to lead Illinois to a 25-6 upset of Michigan and 118 yards in 14 trips the next week in victory over Wisconsin.

Mitchell teams up with Ohio State's Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, the Big Ten's ball-carrying champion; Michigan State's Earl Morrall, poised quarterback and Purdue's Bill Murakowski, bread-and-butter fullback, to make the 1955 all-conference backfield the most potent in recent years.

The line is flanked by two of the greatest ends ever to bless a team at the same time—Michigan's Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz.

From Ohio State came 242-pound Jim Parker, a great middleman in the Buckeyes' defense and also a bruising blocker, and aggressive Ken Vargo.

Vargo was regarded by far the best center in the conference this season.

Michigan State also placed two linemen on the honor team. Guard Carl Nystrom, a sharp blocker and solid on defense, played 60 minutes in the Spartans' victory over Notre Dame. His high-spirited work against Minnesota was rewarded by his teammates carrying him off the field on their shoulders.

Norman Masters is the biggest Spartan player at 225 pounds and a fine performer at the key left tackle post.

Rounding out the line is Iowa's Cal Jones, shifted from guard to tackle on the No. 1 team. Despite a tangle leg injury, the 220-pound Jones played his heart out and was the hub in the Hawkeyes sturdy defense.

Jones was selected for the AP all-conference team for the third straight year. Cassidy and Kramer also were holdovers from 1954.

In the poll of AP staffers, Cassidy was the only unanimous first team choice. His teammate, Vargo, missed this honor by only one vote.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Monday morning class of football coaches knew at a glance that the Old Professor was in his cups again. He had a cup of coffee in front of him, a cup of tea to the right of him, a cup of cocoa to the left of him. He gazed at them in turn, slightly bewildered.

Old Professor—I confess I'm confused, gentlemen. I started making a five-day test, and I've forgotten what I was testing. Guess I'll have to trade my memory in for a later model.

Paul Dietzel, Louisiana State—Speaking of trades, professor, I wouldn't trade Earl Leggett for any tackle in the United States. The 265-pound young man was a standout. Our offense worked well against Arkansas' tough defense.

Jack Mitchell, Arkansas—I'm quite disappointed in the showing of the Razorbacks. It looks like we always have a tough time getting fired up for LSU.

Old Professor—It's not an all-fired team, in other words. Or fired all the time, if you will excuse my levity.

Mr. Wilkinson, you should be quite happy.

Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma—I am, professor. I am. We're always happy to win. I think Bill Glassford is one of the finest gentlemen and one of the best coaches I've ever competed against. All circumstances considered, this year's coaching job at Nebraska has been tremendous. Football needs men like Glassford.

Bill Glassford, Nebraska—Thank you, Mr. Wilkinson. As for our game, the answer is simple. Oklahoma is a great team with fine depth. As for leaving Nebraska, I feel wonderful. I feel like I've been reborn. It's been a great strain. People don't realize the time and work required to coach.

Old Professor—Nobody knows the trouble you've seen, I take it.

Woody Hayes, Ohio State—I had no troubles, professor. It was the best football game any team ever played for me. We were excellent on offense, magnificent on defense. And that Cassidy! He's the greatest ever. Let's face it, we beat them for the full 60 minutes.

Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan—What can we say? They outplayed us, and the better team deserves to win, doesn't it?

Commissioner Of NFL Wants To Drop Fair Catch Signal

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, said Monday a proposal will be made at the January league meeting in Los Angeles to encourage more punt returns.

Bell admitted that some circles feel the fair catch is being used to excess and one of the game's great picture plays, the punt return, is becoming as extinct as the drop kick.

A check of NFL statistics shows that in any NFL game there are no more than three punt returns. Almost invariably the safety men throw up their hands signaling a fair catch.

A fair catch signal means the safety man will not attempt to run back the punt, but desires possession of the ball at the point of his catch. If an on-charging lineman tackles the safety man after the fair catch signal is given, his team is penalized 15 yards.

What has increased the fair catch and decreased punt returns?

Bell said it's because the kicker is allowed to retreat 15 or more yards to get off his punt. As a result the defensive lineman have to do little blocking. They realize the odds against the punt being blocked are great and so concentrate on getting down field to nail the receiver.

Bell said a rule will be proposed which would limit the punter to no more than 10 yards from the line of scrimmage to get off his kick. If he retreats further than 10 yards it would be an illegal formation and a penalty.

With the kicker not as deep, the linemen would have to concentrate more on blocking at the line to prevent a blocked punt. There would be less chance to run down field and nail the receiver.

WHITE REPORTS TO GIANTS FOR SPRING TRAINING

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants announced Monday that Bill White, now on the Minneapolis roster and rated one of the outstanding prospects in the Giant organization, will report at the parent club's training camp at Phoenix, Ariz., next spring.

White, a 6-foot-1, 190-pound first baseman, played with Dallas last year, his third in organized ball. He previously had played with Sioux City, Iowa and Danville, Ill., and currently is playing in Puerto Rico. He has .298 for Dallas.

Up to seven miles of wire are used in the electrical system of each new automobile.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. Treasury bonds sagged Monday in a continuing reaction to the increased discount rate at which federal reserve banks lend money to their member banks.

Industrial convertibles dipped, in line with the decline of their stock counterparts, to lead the corporate bond market narrowly lower. Volume increased to $3,670,000 par value from $3,330,000 last Friday.

Government bond dealers said the decline in Treasury securities reflected tighter money market conditions.

The cost of borrowing money through bankers acceptances was increased 1/4 of a percentage point by major dealers Monday. Bankers acceptances are bills covering exports, imports and domestic shipments which have been "accepted" by a bank.

The cost of buying stocks on margin also went up as most major New York banks boosted their rates on collateral loans to brokers by 1/4 percentage point.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined Monday in moderate manner, its third fall since it failed to break through to a new high.

Prices were down around $3 at the worst while gains went to about $1. There were only a few more losers than gainers, and trading was light at 1,960,000 shares as compared with 2,320,000 shares Friday.

The market was around its lowest point at the finish. Rails and coppers at one time did well, but they ended lower. Nevertheless, those two divisions together with the oils maintained some good gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down $60 at $177.40. The industrial component was off $3.40, rails lower by 50 cents, and utilities 20 cents.

Last Wednesday The AP average came to within $1.20 of the old record high of $181.50 established last Sept. 23 just before the break on the news of the President's illness. The market was given its big push down last Friday after the Federal Reserve Board raised its discount rate to 2 1/2 per cent from 2 1/4 per cent as a blow at inflation.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on volume of 850,000 shares as against 810,000 Friday.

CORN MAKES SMALL GAIN ON SLOW MARKET

By WILLIAM FERRIS
CHICAGO (AP)—A little firmness in corn provided the only bright spot in grains on the Board of Trade Monday.

In another one of the dull sessions which have become commonplace in recent weeks, wheat, rye and soybeans tended lower. Oats held about steady, largely in sympathy with corn's firmness.

Public interest in the market was very limited. This left most of the activity in the hands of local traders. They didn't find the news exciting enough to do anything in an aggressive way.

Wheat closed 1/4-1/2 lower, corn 1/4-1/2 higher, oats 1/4 lower to 3/4 higher, rye 1 cent lower, soybeans 1 3/4-2 1/4 lower and lard 8 to 18 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Buying in corn was stimulated at the start by receipt of only 544 cars of cash corn. This was a big decline from the 842 received a week ago, which was a seven year high.

Corn made its best gains early. While not extending them later in the day, it held on fairly well. In the cash market elevator interests again were buying and prices advanced 1 1/2 to 2 cents.

Soybeans met mild liquidating pressure although both soybean oil and soybean meal with a little firmer in the cash market. Meal was quoted at $48.00 a ton.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—A fair number of lightweight butchers sold as much as 25 cents higher in early trading Monday but otherwise the market was steady to strong. Sows were at strong to 25 cents higher prices. Salable receipts totaled only 13,000 head.

Buyers paid $11.75 to $12.25 for butchers weighing 190 to 220. Several hundred head went at $12.50 to $12.75 while a 45 head lot reached $12.90. Most 230 to 270-pound butchers were taken at $11.25 to $11.75 while sows sold at $9.75 to $11.00.

In the cattle section, where salable receipts totaled 22,000, steers sold steady to 50 cents higher while heifers gained 25 to 75 cents. Top on high prime steers reached $24.50 while prime heifers topped at $21.75. Both prices were paid for one lot.

Buyers took most choice and prime steers at $19.00 to $23.00 while comparable heifers brought $19.50 to $21.50.

Cows sold steady to 25 cents higher at $9.25 to $12.00 for utility and commercial and $8.00 to $9.75 for canners and cutters. Vealers were fully steady at $23.00 down.

Lambs mainly sold 50 cents higher. Most good to prime woolled lambs were taken at $18.00 to $19.75. Salable receipts totaled 2,500 in the sheep pens.

France In Deep Trouble In N. Africa; U. S. Finds Itself In Diplomatic Trap

Editor's Note—Is there any hope for an end to North African violence? The United States fervently hopes so, for the troubles which have baffled more than a score of French governments have now landed this nation in a perplexing diplomatic trap. Here is a report by the AP's Paris bureau chief, who has witnessed the disturbances at first hand.

By PRESTON GROVER

France is neck deep in trouble with her African colonies.

And France's troubles have trapped the United States diplomatically.

If American foreign policy supports the French efforts to retain a hold on North Africa, it alienates the Moslem world from Morocco on the Atlantic to Indonesia on the Pacific.

The West and the United States in particular have been bending every effort to win the support of the 300 million Moslems and the restless young nations rising from the death throes of colonialism.

Glandular Inflammation is a constitutional disease and medicines that give temporary relief will not remove the cause of your troubles. They have found soothing relief and a new zest in life. for the Arabs may mean that French investors and settlers will lose their present favored economic position.

France has moved to meet Arab demands by both repression and concession, but both have proved stormy paths.

Concessions in the way of self-government embittered French colonists and investors as well as empire lovers who feel that home rule for the colonies could lead only to their complete loss.

Repressing has angered the Arabs, spurred new demonstrations, alienated the Moslem nations and thus served to divide the non-Communist world.

In the present moves in Morocco and Tunisia, France hopes it has found a middle course between colonialism and independence. Many doubt that this compromise will prove successful from a long-range standpoint. Even if it does, however, there still remains the problem of Algeria.

The present French program calls for the government to put down the Algerian rebels and begin a long-range program to raise the political, educational and economic status of the natives. Many observers doubt, however, that such a program can ever be a full answer.

The bell was replaced by a second Revere bell in 1826 and was destroyed in a church fire 47 years later. The first bell, the bank's advertisement said, "disappeared."

Time May Not Heal But It Softens Many Things So Has It Softened The Life Of Alger Hiss

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—While it may not heal completely, time does soften many things. It has softened the life of Alger Hiss.

In his first year of freedom since going to prison for perjury and implied betrayal of his country, Hiss has felt free to move about New York City without fear of unpleasant incident.

He has walked the streets, traveled in subways and buses and encountered little or no overt hostility.

On the street, most people passed by without a second glance at the man who was perhaps the most celebrated defendant of his time. His case profoundly unsettled a nation. Some studied his gait, his solemn face as tho trying to remember where they had seen him. Some plainly did recognize him. Of these, all but one were sympathetic. The exception was a woman who walked up, stared him in the eye, said, "I think Whitaker Chambers is a great man," and walked off.

This information comes from Hiss friends and associates, who also reported that since his release from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., last Nov. 27, Hiss has received about 150 letters from strangers, all but about a dozen of these were described as friendly and, of the dozen, "all but one were obviously from cranks or fanatics."

The friendly letters included financial contributions ranging from $1 to $50. Hiss kept the money to help meet his family's living expenses.

Neither Hiss' wife, who works for a Manhattan publisher, nor his 14-year-old son, who attends prep school in Vermont, have been subjected to any public hostility or made to feel like outcasts.

And the worst fears of Hiss' friends, who were concerned for his physical safety when he left prison, have proved unfounded. There have been no threats against the former State Department official who was convicted of perjury for denying that he passed secret state documents to Chambers, then an admitted Russian agent. Chambers was the principal witness against Hiss.

It is Hiss' contention that his trial was accompanied by public hysteria, and he takes the absence of unpleasant incident since his release as evidence that such an attitude has subsided.

Hiss, who is 51, saw this reporter in his Greenwich Village apartment, a third-floor walkup with four rooms. He was even thinner than usual, as the result of a recent gall bladder operation. His manner was friendly, polite, buoyant. But, seeming to shrink from any more personal publicity, Hiss stipulated in advance that parts of the interview must remain off the record.

As it turned out, the whole interview remained off the record. Hiss answered each question at length, carefully and precisely. Each answer was carefully hewn and measured and each remained off the record.

From other sources, it was learned that Hiss now hopes to make a living as a writer and possibly lecturer in the future. He cannot return to his original profession, law, because he has been disbarred.

Hiss received $300 for a recent article on Yalta published in a pocket magazine. He also has received an advance on a book from a British publisher. This money represents his first earned income since 1949.

The book, it is said, will deal with the civil liberty aspects of his case, with the mood, pressures and atmosphere of the time which he believes made an objective trial impossible.

After that, Hiss hopes to write impersonally and possibly lecture on foreign affairs.

Is Hiss bitter, toward his country, toward people in general, toward Chambers, his principal antagonist?

"He definitely shows no bitterness toward his country," said Chester Lane, Hiss' attorney and friend. "In general, I'd say he is not a bitter person. Of course, that is not to say that he would be able to talk civilly to Chambers if they met."

Hiss and his attorney still believe that some day he will be vindicated. Admittedly, most of that hope rests on the possibility that Chambers could recant and say that he accused Hiss wrongfully. "But the hope does not end there," said Lane. "We think the whole case represented a vast conspiracy against Hiss. We think the documents were forged and the typewriter fabricated. We hope that whoever was responsible for the forgery and fabrication may some day try the same crime again and thus expose himself."

Scientists Of 40 Nations Prepare For Greatest Quest For Knowledge

Editor's Note: Scientists throughout the world are getting ready to launch the most exhaustive search for knowledge ever conducted. It will include experiments on everything from shifting ocean currents to man-launched satellites revolving around the earth. Here's the story of the major objectives scientists will be aiming for in this giant project to be called the International Geophysical Year.

The scientists know these and many other apparently unanswered things. Their eternal questions: Why? What is happening to the earth? They know that ice ages have come and gone, that forms of life have risen, flourished and become extinct. Is the earth spinning into a new cycle? Can the changes which affect mankind be predicted? Controlled?

It is toward such answers that the scientists are working in the International Geophysical Year. The answers will not come cheap. The American effort alone will cost millions in public and private funds. Congress already has authorized 12 million dollars for the IGY.

In the 18 months July 1, 1957, to Jan. 1, 1958, the scientists will study solar activity, longitude and latitude, glaciology, oceanography, geomagnetism, aurora and air glow, ionosphere physics, seismology, gravity, cosmic rays and the upper atmosphere.

The American activity will be in all these fields and is being coordinated by the National Academy of Sciences, a private institution. The academy has obtained federal funds through the National Science Foundation, the federal agency responsible for federally sponsored basic research.

As part of the American effort a man-made satellite will be fired into space to orbit around the planet 200 to 800 miles up where it will measure the density and composition of the air, check the distances between continents, measure the ultra-violet ray emanations from the sun and broadcast all this information back to the earth.

The current effort began with a discussion in 1950 at a meeting of the Joint Commission on the Ionosphere in Brussels. The proposal for IGY was submitted subsequently to the executive board of the International Council of Scientific Unions.

Since that time government after government has signified its willingness to participate and, in fact, plans have progressed rapidly. Already the United States has undertaken one preliminary voyage to the antarctic and another is now under way.

The governments participating in the IGY so far are, besides the United States and Russia, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Burma, Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, East Germany, West Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, India, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Morocco, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, Tunisia, Union of South Africa, and Yugoslavia.

Visitors Marooned On Man-Made Isle By Stormy Winds

(Editors Note—Associated Press staffer Don Guy has been marooned on this man-made island since Thursday on the Texas Tower with a group of Air Force and civilian technicians. He transmitted the following story by Marine telephone).

By DON GUY

TEXAS TOWER, 110 Miles Off Cape Cod, Mass. (AP)—The 37 visitors marooned on this man-made island since Thursday hoped fervently today that the weather will subside long enough to permit their transfer onto a homeward-bound boat. The Georges Banks radar station was pounded over the weekend by hurricane-force winds of up to 82 miles per hour and by heavy seas that included one giant wave of 61 feet in height.

The 50 workers and 37 visitors aboard the sturdy tower were in no danger, however, and there were enough bunks for sleeping and sufficient food in the pantry and ice chests.

Two 80-ton fenders broke loose from the legs of the tower during the storm Sunday after winds rose to 82 miles an hour, 7 m.p.h. more than the minimum hurricane velocity. By late Sunday night the wind dropped to 35 m.p.h.

The tower shook as the huge fenders pounded the 200-foot legs. First one fender was torn loose by the raging water and wind and then the other, amid a shower of sparks from the friction of torn cables.

The third leg of the tower—the first of a chain to be built as a radar-warning net—had not yet been equipped with the doughnut-

Mrs. Hess reminded the members of Craft Day on Dec. 1, at 10 o'clock in the Jacksonville Library basement. It was decided to have a special lesson on "Making Glo-Candles" on the afternoon of November 28 at the home of Mrs. Howard Dietrich.

Jacksonville Journal, Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 22, 1955 3

Mrs. Dietrich will give the same instruction also at the December meeting.

Two Badly Hurt Near Griggsville; One Driver Held

PITTSFIELD—Two persons were injured, one critically, in an automobile collision at 4:30 p.m. Sunday on a gravel highway two miles west of Griggsville.

Pike county officers said a 1950

Buick driven by Russell Niccum, 53, of Pittsfield, and a 1951 Ford driven by David L. Jester of Griggsville were involved in the accident at a crossing.

Russell Jester, 65, who was riding with his son, was thrown against the windshield. He is under treatment at Illini hospital with serious chest injuries and facial cuts.

Mrs. Betty Niccum, 46, who was riding with her husband, is reported to be in a critical condition at the hospital. She has chest and other internal injuries.

Both cars went into the ditch and were almost demolished.

County officials said Russell Niccum was lodged in the county jail to await charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, and transporting liquor in a car with the seal broken.

State Patrolman Floyd Syrcle was called to the scene of the collision.

Israel Charges Egypt Raiders Ambush Traffic

JERUSALEM (AP)—Armed raiders based in Jordan ambushed traffic on an Israeli highway and dynamited houses in a border village early today, an Israeli army spokesman charged.

In the first raid, he said, an armed unit fired on two trucks traveling the highway south of Megiddo toward the Jezreel Valley. "One truck was hit several times and the driver was slightly wounded," the spokesman reported. "Afterward police found four ambush positions on both sides of the road and tracks led toward the Jordan border."

The spokesman said an "sabotage unit" subsequently laid three explosive charges in the village of Avuka, blowing up one building and damaging the water pump.

The Israeli source charged Arab countries bordering Israel were allowing Egypt to maintain bases on their territory for commando squads.

Rome (AP)—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, in an interview with the Cairo correspondent for the Italian news agency Ansa, urged that Italy serve as mediator between Egypt and the Western powers.

Nasser said Italy, "as a Mediterranean power directly interested in peace in the Middle East" is in a good position to fill such a role.

LIGHTHOUSE GETS OWN PAINT CAPE ELIZABETH, Maine (AP)—Off-photographed, off-painted old Portland Head Light had to wait nearly 165 years for its own new coat of paint.

The famed lighthouse, a pioneer U. S. public works project, was painted when it went into service in 1791. Periodically ever since, it has been whitewashed. The inexpensive process was right in line with the frugality attending its erection, when President George Washington ordered the 80-foot tower built of local field-stone and brick by Portland-area stonemasons.

Not long ago science developed a plastic vinyl weather-resistant paint, since adopted to coat aids to navigation. Coast guards rigged bos'n's chairs and applied about 30 gallons of the new-fangled stuff—white—to the spray drenched, rock-bedded old beacon.

CLOTHED AGAIN

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Eugene Stone returned to his home to find that thieves had stolen all his clothing—didn't even leave a change of socks. Friends gave him a shower of clothing—enough ready to wear for a change and money to select some others.

TRY A "TROUSE" FOR TRICKY TRAVEL—The automotive contraption above is both truck and house, so its owner, Joe Sinkowich, calls it "trouse." A University of Miami student, he has used it as living quarters and transportation for four years. The unit contains a bunk, two love seats, a table, a stove, an icebox, a sink and a closet. In it, Joe goes home to Pittsburgh every summer and has made one trip cross-country and back, all in complete comfort. The coach unit is designed so it slips handily on or off the bed of his 1948 half-ton Ford truck.

Day of the Outlaw
By Lee Wells
Copyright 1955, by Lee Wells. Distributed by MCA Service, Inc.

XXIV
THE full winter night had come by the time they sat down to the meal. Now and then gusts of wind would hit the house and the whisper of it grew steadily louder. But it was cozy in the kitchen. Dan still ached from the fight but now he hardly noticed it. Phil and Paula had accepted his version of the fight
and it was Starrett who had been ejected from the circle of their trust.
"Let's put it this way, Dan. I believe you and Blaise didn't fight about Paula, and he lied when he said so. But this thing about Hal Crane is powerful medicine. I still am not sure that Blaise is that kind of man and maybe I won't be until he makes some actual move."
"He will," Dan shrugged regretfully.
"Not until the blizzard's over," Phil grunted. "After that, what will happen?" Dan had no answer.
After two steady days of howling winds and blinding snow,
Jack Bruhn wondered the same thing. He walked to the window of the stage station and tried to peer through the thick, blowing mists to get some glimpse of the Squaw Creek bridge a few yards away. The world was nothing but white, white that swirled and lanced through the air, that piled against the building, nothing but wind that shrieked and howled around the cornices and shook the window.
There were six men here,
caught during the night by the blizzard and unable to leave since. Hiatt and Egan, over at the livery stable, would be equally marooned. Here, they had enough food, and wood for the stove. But the last of the whisky had disappeared yesterday and already some of the men were irritable because of it.

Jack returned to his blankets
and sat down. He glanced at the windows, seeing only the blinding white of snow beyond, sighed
and stretched out. His thoughts moved ponderously and at last
he drifted into a half sleep.
Something awakened him. His eyes snapped open and he felt
a tension in the room, a tingle
along his nerves. He slowly turned his head to find that Darrow had irritable paced to the window and frowned out on the white world. The man's voice was harsh.
"When will this thing end?
I'm tired of sitting here with nothing to do."
"Tell the blizzard, Tex," Denver said with a chuckle and then
his smile vanished when Tex
whirled around, face tight.
"Now, that's funny, ain't it?"
Tex demanded. Denver eyed him cautiously. Pace turned his head to watch Tex, and Jack wished he could read the man's expression. Darrow paced to the stove, fiddled there a moment.
His eyes cut about the room,
rested on the saddlebags.
"There's nothing else to do
We might as well divide the boot."
JACK did not allow his turbulent thoughts to show on his face or in his voice. He asked,
lazily, "Now?"
Tex strode to him and halted
a foot or so away. "Any objections? Any reason why we can't have the dinero today as well as tomorrow or next week?"
Jaurez swung about. Denver and Egan watched, tense and silent. They were afraid of this and yet Jack could see that they would also like their share of the money. Pace slowly sat up, pulling in his legs and drooping his arms over them. If I could only

read their minds, Jack thought desperately. Tex and Jaurez want trouble, but what about the others?
"No objections, I guess," he said evenly. He sat up and looked around at the rest, questioning their will, his gray eyes
sharp and probing. Still, he thought, watch 'em and you'll know whether to call this bluff
or not. "Some of us ain't here, though."
"They'll get their share," Tex snapped. Jack sighed and pulled the saddlebags to his blanket.
"First thing, we got to agree
on a split."
Tex made an impatient gesture. "Even-steven all around.
That's fine with me."
DENVER had arisen. Jack read
the bearded face, the suspicious
way he watched Tex, and he thought, one for me. Bruhn swiftly judged the situation.
Denver could handle Jaurez, he could match Tex. It would be over before Vause could make up his mind, but there was still Pace, of course.
"Even all around," Jack said
levelly. "That means nine ways."
"Eight," Tex snapped. "Shorty's
in a bad way. Even if he don't die, he won't be ready to ride by the time we leave town. Eight ways, Jack."
As Bruhn had expected, the excuse for the play would be Shorty. He watched Darrow's lean face, aware that Jaurez had now edged to one side, but Denver had also half turned with the breed. Vause looked from Tex to Jack and back to Tex again,
obviously surprised at the quick developments and very much worried. Pace had not moved.
Jack shrugged, his jaw hardening.
"We count Shorty in, Tex. We don't leave this town until Shorty is either dead or riding out with us. Nine ways... take it or leave it."
Darrow's black eyes slowly
narrowed and his nostrils pinched. He gathered himself for the showdown. Jack's right hand slowly opened so that the big fingers spread and taloned just below his holstered gun.

Day of the Outlaw

XXIV
THE full winter night had come by the time they sat down to the meal. Now and then gusts
of wind would hit the house and
the whisper of it grew steadily
louder. But it was cozy in the kitchen. Dan still ached from the fight but now he hardly noticed it. Phil and Paula had accepted his version of the fight
and it was Starrett who had been ejected from the circle of their trust.
"Let's put it this way, Dan. I believe you and Blaise didn't fight about Paula, and he lied
when he said so. But this thing
about Hal Crane is powerful medicine. I still am not sure that Blaise is that kind of man and
maybe I won't be until he makes
some actual move."
"He will," Dan shrugged regretfully.
"Not until the blizzard's over," Phil grunted. "After that, what will happen?" Dan had no answer.
After two steady days of howling winds and blinding snow,
Jack Bruhn wondered the same thing. He walked to the window of the stage station and tried to peer through the thick, blowing
mists to get some glimpse of the Squaw Creek bridge a few yards away. The world was nothing but white, white that swirled and lanced through the air, that piled against the building, nothing but
wind that shrieked and howled around the corners and shook
the window.
There were six men here,
caught during the night by the
blizzard and unable to leave
since. Hiatt and Egan, over at the livery stable, would be equally marooned. Here, they had enough food, and wood for
the stove. But the last of the whisky had disappeared yester-

day and already some of the men were irritable because of it.
Jack returned to his blankets
and sat down. He glanced at the windows, seeing only the blind-
ing white of snow beyond, sighed
and stretched out. His thoughts
moved ponderously and at last
he drifted into a half sleep.
Something awakened him. His eyes snapped open and he felt
a tension in the room, a tingle
along his nerves. He slowly turned his head to find that Darrow had irritable paced to the window and frowned out on the white world. The man's voice was harsh.
"When will this thing end?
I'm tired of sitting here with
nothing to do."
"Tell the blizzard, Tex," Denver said with a chuckle and then
his smile vanished when Tex
whirled around, face tight.
"Now that's funny, ain't it?"
Tex demanded. Denver eyed him cautiously. Pace turned his head to watch Tex, and Jack wished he could read the man's expression. Darrow paced to the stove, fiddled there a moment.
His eyes cut about the room,
rested on the saddlebags.
"There's nothing else to do.
We might as well divide the loot."
JACK did not allow his turbulent thoughts to show on his face or in his voice. He asked,
lazily, "Now?"
Tex strode to him and halted
a foot or so away. "Any objections? Any reason why we can't have the dinero today as well as
tomorrow or next week?"
Juarez swung about. Denver
and Egan watched, tense and silent. They were afraid of this
and yet Jack could see that they would also like their share of the money. Pace slowly sat up, pulling in his legs and drooping his arms over them. If I could only

read their minds, Jack thought desperately. Tex and Juarez want trouble, but what about the others?
"No objections, I guess," he said evenly. He sat up and
looked around at the rest, questioning their will, his gray eyes
sharp and probing. Still, he thought, watch 'em and you'll
know whether to call this bluff
or not. "Some of us ain't here,
though."
"They'll get their share," Tex
snapped. Jack sighed and pulled
the saddlebags to his blanket.
"First thing, we got to agree
on a split."
Tex made an impatient gesture. "Even-steven all around.
That's fine with me."
DENVER had arisen. Jack read
the bearded face, the suspicious
way he watched Tex, and he thought, one for me. Bruhn
swiftly judged the situation.
Denver could handle Juarez, he could match Tex. It would be over before Vause could make up his mind, but there was still Pace, of course.
"Even all around," Jack said
levelly. "That means nine ways."
"Eight," Tex snapped. "Shorty's
in a bad way. Even if he don't die, he won't be ready to ride by the time we leave town. Eight ways, Jack."
As Bruhn had expected, the
excuse for the play would be Shorty. He watched Darrow's lean face, aware that Juarez had now edged to one side, but Denver had also half turned with the breed. Vause looked from Tex to
Jack and back to Tex again,
obviously surprised at the quick
developments and very much worried. Pace had not moved.
Jack shrugged, his jaw hardening.
"We count Shorty in, Tex. We don't leave this town until Shorty is either dead or riding
out with us. Nine ways. . . take
it or leave it."
Darrow's black eyes slowly
narrowed and his nostrils
pinched. He gathered himself for the showdown. Jack's right hand
slowly opened so that the big fingers spread and taloned just
